

Lunenburg Historical Commission October 2025

The Lunenburg Historical commission met on October 14th at the Ritter building. Members McGrath, Lakso, Sanderson, and Boussom were in attendance. The meeting began at 7:00 PM. Correspondence from the building inspector regarding the status of 763 Mass Ave explained that a death in the family may be part of the reason that the updates on the property have not been had.

Pat Slattery, the chair of the Historical Society, is willing to help with the writing for the historical markers.

There is no update from the DPW on obtaining eminent domain for the Arnold Litch cemetery, so the plan is to contact Town Counsel for the matter.

The town manager has been emailed regarding the status of the town weathervane.

Returning to the town survey, a joint zoom meeting was held with Robin Fordham, a liaison for the Mass Historic commission, and Brian Knight.

Knight has until January 9th of next year to complete phase 3 of the survey.

In total, there are 77 Kilburn houses being surveyed, with 55 of them having never been researched. It was also noted that in order for the caves at Marshall Park to be surveyed, they would need to be dug out.

Upcoming on October 20th is a joint meeting with the commission and the APDC to discuss the possible merger of both.

With no further business, the meeting adjourned at 7:15
